

How can I help out with funding?

Donate on our website, come to our events and fundraisers, participate in membership drives, host a house party, enlist the support of people in your social network or contact us about corporate underwriting. Businesses can support Radio Boise by contacting underwriting [at] radioboise.org.

How do non-profits develop

Public Service Announcements?

Send us some info about your org. What are you getting the word out for? When is it happening? We can work with you to develop a PSA and put it on air. Contact publicservice [at] radioboise.org.

How do recording artists submit stuff?

Send an artist bio and link to your songs to music [at] radioboise.org.

How can I help?

Listen, volunteer, participate in events, help raise funds, become a sustaining member and most importantly - tell your friends about us.

You're invited to participate - in life, in general - but specifically with Radio Boise. Because with you, and our commitment to serving the public good, we will create a democratic powerhouse that is a respite for curious minds, sparking future community inspiration, one show at a time.

Radio Boise is a community radio station. Our volunteer programmers provide quality local programming for the wide range of people and communities in our listening area not satisfied by existing media outlets.

What is non-commercial radio?

It is a public service that should benefit all people and support a diversity of voices, supported by listener donations and underwriting, not advertising.

What's the difference between Community Radio and Public Radio? Community radio brings people in a broadcast area together through locally oriented programming. We are affiliated with the National Federation of Community Broadcasters.

Why would people donate time to Community Radio?

We believe in local independent media that promotes democracy, public service and cultural diversity. If you do, too, please join us.

What types of programs are on Radio Boise?

We feature locally-produced music shows plus programming on the arts, culture, affairs and issues that are not well-represented in other media offerings.

What is this noise? You call this music? It's likely that the type of music you hear on Radio Boise is not represented in mainstream media. But keep tuning in. We bet you'll find something you like.

You call that a music show? I could do better than that.

Bring it on! All of our programmers are volunteers with varying levels of radio experience. If you have an idea for a show that you think the people in this community would enjoy, we'd love to hear about it.

What is that speaker going on about? I don't agree with that point of view. Radio Boise aims to promote freedom of speech - especially for voices that don't get heard elsewhere. It's good to try and see things from another perspective.

How is Radio Boise funded? We get some funding from grants, but primarily we survive on the generosity of individuals and organizations in this community. This would not be possible without everyone pitching in.
